Cerbios-Pharma SA has long been investing in the training of young people and is recognized in Southern Switzerland for the high theoretical quality and practical working ability of its apprentices.

In the past, the majority of apprentices trained by our company was hired at the end of the apprenticeship and continued on working with us. Today young people often decide to continue their studies.

This is also the case of Daniela Campanini, who aims to continue her studies at the University in Zurich.

She is not sure whether she will continue on Marine Biology or Physics. Whatever she chooses, we are sure that she will achieve her goals and wish her all the best for the future.
